WAGE REDUCTION ORDER TO AFFECT 210 OF RAILWAYS

CHICAGO, June 27.—The United States railroad labor board today extended its wage reduction order, effective July 1, to practically every large railroad in the country. No change from the average 12 per cent reduction granted 104 carriers on June 1 was made by today's decision. The board's order today covered 210 roads.

Today's reduction order involved all classes of employes on virtually every railroad known as a class 1 carrier which was not included in the board's original reduction order. The class 1 group includes every big road in the country.

The only change in the rates of reduction made by today's decision was in the case of some marine workers.

Rates established for railroad marine workers included the following:

New Orleans: Captains, $200; pilots, $200; mates, $120; chief engineers, $195; assistant engineers, $170; firemen, $111.50; deck hands, $100.50; water tenders, $116.50; oilers, $95.

Natchez, Miss.: Chief masters, $185; masters, $101.80; engineers, $154; firemen, $80; firemen, $1.60 a day; tug deck hands, $3.25 a day; coal passer, $3.10 a day; watchmen, $3.20 a day.

CHICAGO, June 27.—The new wage decision of the United States railroad labor board will make a reality of the estimated $400,000,000 annual savings expected when the board's 12 per cent cut, effective July 1, is applied to all employes, on all railroads, known as class one carriers. The decision, drawn up as an addendum to the wage reduction order of June 1, adds practically every railroad in the class one division to the original list of 104 roads authorized to make the 12 per cent reduction.

When the reduction order was issued, it was estimated that if applied to all employes on all class one roads, it would lop approximately $400,000,000 from the country's railroad labor bill.

The new decision will make this cut possible, by ordering reduced wages for employes not including in the original case and also by reducing salaries on roads which were not parties to the first hearing.

Immediately following the announcement of the board's first wage cut on June 1, roads from every section of the country poured in their applications to the board for authority to make similar reductions. At hearing set for June 6, included a total of 164 roads and in the next two weeks 61 more submissions were made and included in a hearing for June 30. A few roads which had not included al classes of employes in their first petition for reductions came in with the remaining classes in the last hearing.

Many of the roads which asked reductions for only part of their employes at the original hearing in May came back with applications to cover all employes in these two later hearings. Virtually every railroad in the country affected by the labor board's $600,000,000 wage award of July, 1 20, was included in one or more of the three hearings.

Following the 12 per cent reduction, which generally unsatisfactory to the roads, the carriers returned to the board with added insistence that the 1920 wage award be wiped out. The board, however, was not inclined to change its scale of reductions determined in the June 1 decision and merely added to that decision employes involved in the subsequent hearings.

At the two June hearings, the roads, for the most part, contented themselves with reiterating the evidence presented in May. Their arguments consisted chiefly of cost of living statistics and comparison of railroad wages with those in outside industries. The employes took up other factors laid down by the transportation act to be considered in the distribution of just and reasonable wages. Hazards of employment, the living wages and similar lines of evidence were introduced in an effort to prevent any cut in wages.

While no definite returns have been announced from the referendum being taken by the railway unions on acceptance or rejection of the 12 per cent cut, it was expected that conferences here on July 1 would agree to accept the board's decision without any interruption of traffic.

TRIAL OF GAINES ON MURDER CHARGE BEGINS AT DALLAS

ACCUSED OF SHOOTING G. W. STEEL DURING POSTOFFICE ROBBERY.

LAWYER IS APPOINTED TO CONDUCT THE DEFENSE

Scrivner, Confessed Participant, Recently Pardoned, Principal State Witness.

DALLAS, June 27.—Application for a change of venue was made for Charles E. Gaines, alias George Wheeler, charged with the murder of G. W. Street, postal clerk, in a local postoffice robbery last January, when the case was called today. Judge C. A. Pippen dismissed a special venire of 300 until tomorrow morning and began hearing witnesses on the application.

DALLAS, June 27.—Charles E. Gaines, alias George Wheeler, was placed on trial in state court here today on a murder charge growing out of the fatal shooting of G. W. Street, postal clerk, during a postoffice substation robbery January 14. As in previous trials of alleged members of the robber band, W. S. Scrivner, confessed participant in the holdup, will be the state's chief witness and will repeat, according to the prosecution, the story he told at the trials of Albert L. Rowan, alleged ringleader, and Ben Luna. Gaines also will be tried in federal court for mail robbery at the conclusion of the state's case.

Unlike Luna and Rowan, who were represented by a strong array of criminal lawyers, Gaines is represented by one attorney, appointed by the court. Penniless and without friends, he has steadfastly asserted his innocence since his arrest at Indianapolis several weeks ago. Scrivner, however, picked him from a group of twelve men as one of the robbers.

Luna has been sentenced to 25 years in federal prison for his alleged connection with the robbery, and Rowan, besides a similar sentence in federal court, also was sentenced to 50 years in a Texas penitentiary on a state charge of murder in connection with the killing of Clerk Street. Two members of the band have not been arrested.

A special venire of 300 prospective jurymen was present when court opened this morning.

HEADS OF EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS DISCUSS PLANS WITH GOVERNOR

AUSTIN, June 27.—Heads of the various leading educational institutions of Texas held a conference here today with Governor Pat M. Neff in the executive department and discussed educational matters with reference to appropriations to be made for these institutions at the coming special session of the legislature.

While the exact nature of the conference was not announced, it is known that the governor requested these educational heads to meet here today. It is understood there will be some material reductions made in the educational appropriation bills and the question of where to cut was the purpose of the meeting. Besides the heads of the various state normals, there were present Dr. W. R. Bizzell, president of A. and M. college; Dr. R. E. Vinson, president of the University of Texas; F. M. Bralley, president of the College of Industrial Arts; Miss Annie Webb Blanton, state superintendent of public instruction, and Commissioner of Agriculture George B. Terrell.

MOTION PICTURE THEATER OWNERS HAVE CONVENTION

MINNEAPOLIS, June 27.—Censorship problems, better and cleaner pictures, plans for conducting Americanization work through the "movies" and a dispute between the exhibitors and producers who have entered the exhibiting field were before delegates to the second annual convention of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America, which opened a three-day session today.

United States Senators W. S. Kenyon of Iowa and Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma; Gov. Samuel R. McKelvie of Nebraska and Gov. J. A. O. Preus of Minnesota, and Sydney S. Cohen of New York, president of the organization, were to speak.

One important consideration was to be the development of the vocational guidance idea in all American theaters, the outgrowth of a plan laid before President Harding recently by the owners' executive committee whereby all theaters will be open free on Saturday mornings for educational films.

EXPECT TO SECURE TWO-THIRDS VOTE FOR NEW DRY LAW

WASHINGTON, June 27.—A two-thirds vote will be necessary to put through the Willis-Campbell anti-beer bill, which was the business before the house for late today under a suspension of the rules and an agreement for a vote after four hours' debate. Prohibition leaders were confident of victory.

Briefly the bill would prevent use of beer by the sick on a physician's prescription; would prohibit manufacture and importation of liquor until the present stock held under government supervision for non-beverage use has been exhausted; would limit the number of liquor prescriptions to be issued by physicians to 90 in three months, and apply the provisions of the prohibition act to Hawaii and the Virgin Islands.

ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF WIFE ABANDONMENT HE ADMITS SECOND MARRIAGE

ST. LOUIS, June 27.—Joseph B. Adams, alias Alfred Freno, under arrest here by order of authorities at Syracuse, N. Y., where he is said to have been indicted for wife and child abandonment, has admitted, police say, that he married a second woman at Clayton, Mo., recently while intoxicated. He did not know until the day after the marriage, he declared, that it had taken place.

"I love my first wife and two babies," he is said to have declared. "and only hope that I shall be paroled and given a chance to make good again."

Adams said he had intended to return to his family at Syracuse, but could not do so when he learned of his second marriage.

DISTRICT JUDGES REAPPOINT MURPHY

Unanimously Select County Auditor For Next Two Years at Meeting Monday Morning.

The three district judges Monday morning re-appointed W. W. Murphy as county auditor for the next two years. The selection was unanimous.

Mr. Murphy filed his application for re-appointment three weeks ago, at the same time that Ed P. Walsh, his chief deputy, filed his application, said to have been supported by a long list of property tax payers.

Mr. Walsh formerly served as county auditor, Mr. Murphy succeeding him nearly two years ago. For the past year or more Mr. Walsh was employed in the office by Mr. Murphy but tendered his resignation upon the filing of his application to the appointment.

The three district judges, Judges Martin, Weldon and Napier, met a week ago but at that time no appointment was made, it being understood that two of the judges wished to wait another week as several parties had expressed their desire of speaking to them before they made the appointment.

It was learned that a portion of the commissioner's court supported Mr. Walsh while the other members were ardent supporters of Mr. Murphy. The split in the commissioners court, although at no time taking on a serious aspect, has been present ever since the new term of office last December 1.

DECISION OF GREECE EMPHASIZES MILITARY INTERESTS DOMINATE

By Associated Press.

ATHENS, June 26.—The note of Greece declining the offer of France, Great Britain and Italy to mediate in the trouble between the Turks and the Greeks in Asia Minor says Greece finds herself in a position in which military interests are to guide her conduct and decisions. An abandonment of the offensive against the Turks, it says, would compromise and prejudice the position of Greece and give courage to the Turks.

The note adds that Greece will be ready to hear concrete proposals from the allies during every phase of the operations and that she hopes the allies will obtain definite terms from the Turks.

BELIEVE DE VALERA WILL ACCEPT OFFER FROM LLOYD GEORGE

EXPECTED TO FAVORABLY REPLY TO INVITATION TO DISCUSS PEACE.

SHARP CONDITIONS MAY BE REQUIRED OF BRITISH

Wants Guarantee of Safe Conduct For Colleagues Whom he Wishes to Accompany Him.

LONDON, June 27.—Belief that Eamonn de Valera, "president of the Irish republic," will accept Premier Lloyd George's invitation to come to London for a conference with the government and Premier Craig of Ulster, designed to bring about a settlement of the Irish problem, is expressed in the majority of reports reaching this city from Dublin.

It is generally agreed that De Valera probably will attach sharp conditions to his acceptance, one regarding the safe conduct of certain of his colleagues whom De Valera may wish to have accompany him. This applies especially to Michael Collins, former commander-in-chief of the Irish republican army, and Richard Mulcahy, who frequently has been referred to in England as an "organizer of assassinations."

It is stated in some quarters that De Valera would not go to London without these two men, while it also was predicted that he would insist on the release of other men now interned or imprisoned in order that they might accompany him. It was pointed out that the wording of the premier's letter would make it impossible for him to refuse such a demand.

This was considered to constitute a remarkable and significant change in the attitude of the British premier, who earlier in the year had excepted certain sinn feiners from those whom he would be willing to receive as negotiators. The men excepted had been denounced in the house of commons as murderers.

Offensive Is Planned.

In the event De Valera refuses the premier's invitation, it is generally believed that the government will make energetic preparations for a vigorous campaign for the supression of sinn fein activities in the west and south. Troops which could be used for this purpose are constantly arriving in England.

In some sources it is said that De Valera will be unable to stop the activities of sinn fein riflemen without British help.

Moderate sinn feiners are reported as being extremely anxious to accept Premier Lloyd George's invitation and they fear terrible results if the order is turned down an intensified military campaign is begun.

An authority, anonymously quoted by the Daily Mail in Irish dispatches, declared that peace would be possible if the British government agreed to permit Ireland to govern itself, excluding only matters pertaining to foreign relations, the army, navy and other strategical considerations, and if the six northern counties were granted by the rest of Ireland such measures of self-government as De Valera has indicated his willingness to concede, within the limits of an autonomous Ireland. Such settlement, however, this authority pointed out, would involve abandonment of the demand for complete independence and might for that reason be repudiated by the extremists.

CANADIAN PRIME MINISTERS MAY ATTEND CONFERENCE

LONDON, June 27.—In the event of Eamonn de Valera accepting Mr. Lloyd George's invitation to visit London for a peace conference, it is altogether probable that the dominion prime ministers, now in London, will be invited by the British prime minister to participate in the negotiations.

If Mr. De Valera accepts the invitation, the coming week in London may well be one of the most momentous in a century of British history. With the miners and their employers called to confer today, with hope for the settlement of the Irish question presented and with the Anglo-Japanese alliance and all that it involves, under consideration, number 10 Downing street will be big with possibilities for the future of the world.

He declared that war between Japan and the United States ultimately is inevitable.

CALDWELL NEGRO IS SENTENCED TO DEATH IN HOUR AND A HALF

CALDWELL, TEXAS, June 27.—Charlie Sanders, burleson county negro, charged with the murder of S. W. Richardson on the latter's farm near Cooks Point on the night of June 13, was found guilty by a jury here today and given the death sentence. Judge O. J. Alexander set Wednesday, July 27, as the date for Sanders' execution.

Court convened at 8:00 o'clock in special session, a jury had been selected at 10.00, and three state witnesses testified. The defense offered no testimony. The case was given to the jury at 10.20 a. m. and three minutes later the verdict was returned.

The prosecution did not bring up a second indictment against Sanders involving an attack on Richardson's daughter, who is now in a hospital at Bryan in a critical condition. The girl was attacked when she started to the assistance of her father, who was beaten to death.

The case attracted unusual attention in this section, and officers guarded Sanders closely following his arrest. Nearly 500 persons were in the courtroom at his trial today.

ALEXANDER HOWAT IS AGAIN ON TRIAL IN KANSAS COURT

COLUMBUS, KAN., June 27.—Judge Frank W. Boss of the Cherokee county district court overruled a motion to quash the indictment against Alexander Howat and August Dorchy, president and vice-president of the Kansas miners' union, charged with violating the industrial court law by calling a strike, this morning and ordered the trial to proceed. Examination of jurors was begun.

COLUMBUS, KAN., June 27.—Alexander Howat faced another trial in his fight against the Kansas industrial court law here today, charged with August Dorchy, vice-president of the Kansas miners' union, of which Howat is president, with criminal violation of the industrial court law, the union leader appeared before Judge Frank W. Boss of the Cherokee county court.

Two other judges before whom Howat has appeared in the last year and a half have sent him to jail. The first was Judge A. B. Anderson of the federal court at Indianapolis. The other was Judge Andrew J. Curran of the Crawford county district court at Pittsburg, Kan., who sent Howat to jail more than a year ago for contempt of court and again sentenced him to a year on another charge tried last February.

Although rain was threatening this morning, miners of the Kansas field began pouring into Columbus by interurban cars before the hour set for the trial. Kansas miners have not worked on any of the days when Howat was on trial and district officials say there will be no work as long as the trial here lasts.

The court room where the trial will be held will seat only 150 persons and court officials have ordered that no more be admitted.

DECLARE WAGE REDUCTIONS WOULD INCREASE PROFITS

CHICAGO, June 27.—Charges that the packers kept their percentage of profit down to 1 to 1920 by cutting to see on producers against the years earnings, when they should have been charged against surplus were made before Judge Samuel Alschuler, arbiter of packing house wages, today. The wage cut of 3 cents an hour, asked by the packers would only serve to increase their profits without benefiting producer or consumer, employes declared.

PROMINENT PHYSICIAN SCORES VOLSTEAD LAW

Urges Doctors of Country to Unite in An Effort to Secure Its Repeal.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 27.—The doctors of the country were called upon today to unite in an effort to repeal the Volstead act by Dr. W. Walker Fritz of Philadelphia, president of the Allied Medical Association of America, in an address at the annual convention of the organization. He declared the prohibition law was a failure and made more drunkards than the old laws did.

"The president enunciated for the Volstead act," he said, "insults medical practice, and at the profession values its thousands of priority. It must meet it with a protest that will command attention. The medical profession should not permit itself to be placed in a position before the world as liquor salesmen and drug store as salesmen.

"The question is constantly asked: What benefit, if any, has the public derived from the enactment of the prohibition law? From general observation it has been a curse to them and to our country. It has taken away good liquor and has substituted poison and deleterious liquors and beers. It is backing the public to secretly drink behind closed doors and getting drunk. It is causing gambling and immorality in the homes. It is causing death after death in the underworld. It is causing blindness by the score. Are we physicians going to make a stand for the good of the public health and our country or are we going to let it ruinously and shoot our thumbs? We must decide which is the greater evil from a medical standpoint. Prohibition or home brew, or the free use of light wines and beer properly distilled and brewed under government standard."

ROBISON ROAD BILL IS PASSED IN THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, June 27.—After forty minutes of heated debate, the house today passed the Robison road bill, designed particularly to keep highways operated by federal funds in good condition. The vote was 206 to 77.

Although supported by a majority of the house roads committee, the bill was vigorously opposed by Chairman Dorsey and other members, who argued that it would benefit sparsely settled states at the expense of populous ones.

Representative Rayburn, democrat, Texas, contended enforcement of the bill would almost completely wreck the road system of Texas.

Under the measure, states would be given three years in which to establish funds for maintenance of federal aid roads. Should a state, after proper notification, fail within ten days to make specified improvements of roads, the federal government would undertake the work at the state's expense and no attempt was made to further the interests for federal aid construction unless such state would be approved. The state instead of counties or other subdivisions, would be the unit in allotting of federal road aid.

PRESENT CONGRESS MAY NOT COMPLETE NEW TARIFF BILL

WILL BE SEPTEMBER BEFORE DEBATE GETS UNDER WAY IN SENATE.

ANGLO-JAPANESE TREATY IS SUBJECT OF CONCERN

Strong Sentiment in Washington Opposed to It's Renewal by Great Britain and Japan.

By MARK SULLIVAN
National Political Correspondent of The New York Evening Post and The Wichita Daily Times
(Copyright, 1921, by the New York Evening Post)

WASHINGTON, June 27—Any enumeration of developments in Washington beginning to be apparent just now will probably start with the serious possibility that no tariff bill may be passed by the present session of congress. This would be a startling development, considering how much emphasis was laid on the tariff by the republican leaders at the beginning of the administration.

The tariff, so far as it has gone, is still in the ways and means committee of the house 10 weeks after the beginning of the session. Far from approaching the kind of agreement that would mean an early perfection of the bill, the fact is that in the house disagreement becomes daily more apparent and more violent.

After the ways and means committee of the house is through the finance committee of the senate will probably spend another 10 weeks on the bill. It may well be September before the debate on the bill gets under way in the senate, and under all the circumstances it would be bold to predict that the debate can be finished and the bill passed before the first of December. Within the past few days those republican leaders who believe it is a mistake to pass the tariff bill first and that the revision of taxes is the more immediate necessity have shown increased energy. It is likely that very soon increased emphasis will be given to taxation measures.

Unexpected Development

Another conspicuous and unexpected development is that in the present state of the senate the man who comes nearer than any one else to being a leader of that leaderless body is Senator Borah. Borah is as unconcerned with leadership in the formal sense, and as loose in his attachment to the republican party organization, as he ever was. Probably it would be most improbable to expect him ever to take on the responsibility of formal leadership. The actions of formal leadership are such as to be greatly repugnant to his temperament. But if leadership consists in getting what you fight for, Borah comes as near being a leader as anybody else in the senate. It is a leadership that depends upon the recognition of popular causes an dthe earnest advocacy of them.

A third development apparent this week concerns the question of renewing the Anglo-Japanese treaty. Within this field there are no official utterances and no one can do more than make deductions from observation. The appearance of things is that our government looks on this matter as of interest to us, but makes no pretense to claim that either Great Britain or Japan is called upon to consult us. But it's also apparent that our government would not wish these British colonies which object to the treaty to be misled into withdrawing their objection on any theory that the United States had been consulted.

Object to Treaty

Outside the administration, in the senate and elsewhere, where men feel more free to talk, there is as much objection to the renewal of this treaty as there is in the British colonies, ten who are not in official position of responsibility do not hesitate say that, however much justification there may have been for this treaty at a time when Germany and Russia were active in the east and when Great Britain had to protect herself against them, these reasons do not now exist as justification for a renewal of the treaty.

The grounds given by friends of Great Britain to preserve and further her commercial interests in the east, that failure to renew the treaty would be an insult, strong for Great Britain to do toward an loyal ally as Japan had been, and, finally, the fact that an alliance in relation between a large part of Japan and a large part of Britain makes the treaty desirable to Great Britain in the highest interests of the future.

POSTOFFICE FOR TEXHOMA CITY IS BEING CONSIDERED

WILBARGER SCHOOL DISTRICT WANTS INCREASE TAX RATE

VERNON, TEXAS, June 27—A petition has been presented by Elliott school district number 52 requesting the calling of a special school election. This will be for the purpose of submitting to the voters the proposition of increasing the school tax from 50 cents to a limit not to exceed $1. Hames district 44 has an election pending for the same purpose. Lockett school district 11 has ordered a similar proposition submitted to its tax payers and voters.

These projects are being carried out so that in case there is no state aid forthcoming during the year these individual localities will be enabled to care for their needs with their own funds. County Superintendent of Schools J. H. Fulcher is still hopeful that help will be offered by the state

DESTROYERS DEFEAT DREADNOUGHTS IN SHAM BATTLE

This really remarkable photograph, which during the war would have been strictly censored, shows several of the Pacific fleet destroyers in action during the sham battle off Avalon, California, the feature of which was the smoke screen used by the destroyers. This screen turned the bright California sun into a forest of smoke, making things as "dark as Egypt". The photo was made from a navy hydroplane which took part in the maneuvers.

"CURB MARKET" NOW WITHIN FOUR WALLS

Moves Into It's Own Spacious Quarters on Western Fringe of Wall Street.

NEW YORK, June 27—After several decades of a marginal existence along the main highway of the financial district, the outside market, corporately known as the New York Curb association, today moved into its own spacious quarters on the western fringe of Wall street.

For the first time in its long and picturesque history, the curb, to quote one of its [illegible] members, will not have to "[illegible] and will find shelter well within four walls."

The new building of the New York curb market, now completed at a cost of about $2,[illegible], including the ground, is an impressive structure located on Trinity place, directly back of the famous Trinity graveyard and extending westward to Greenwich street.

Already the executive offices of the association have been installed, and though the financial district is passing through a period of postwar depression, the trading sessions of the curb below the new headquarters will mark the beginning of a new and prosperous career.

Of the entire membership as now constituted—variously estimated at 400 to 600—almost 25 per cent of the old guard of veteran members have retained their hold and continue their operations in the [illegible] of Broad street.

This faction may find itself [illegible] however, by the attitude of the [illegible] officials. The [illegible] long ago found it necessary to "[illegible]" the members within an irregular square, because their increasing numbers obstructed street traffic.

Among the members of the curb association are a number of men more or less directly connected with the "big board" as the stock exchange is known in the Wall Street vernacular. Some stock exchange firms have voiced their opposition to the idea of a regular house or headquarters for the "curb." Others believe it will add to the strength and responsibility of that organization.

One of the arguments advanced for a fixed habitat for the curb brokers has been that it would eliminate an undesirable element.

CADILLAC CAR STOLEN SUNDAY NIGHT FROM IN FRONT CARRIGAN HOME

A seven-passenger Cadillac touring car, the property of Judge A. H. Carrigan, was stolen from in front of his residence, 1100 Austin, late Sunday night.

Members of the family noticed two men approach the machine, according to reports, but did not realize that a robbery was to be attempted until too late to interfere. The police were immediately notified and a watch placed on all roads leading from town but no trace could be found of the car.

VETERAN LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEER DIES AT LOS ANGELES HOME

LOS ANGELES, June 27—Charles Miller Patton, for 43 years locomotive engineer for the Southern Pacific lines, and who drove the first steam train into Los Angeles, is dead at his home here, aged 72 years.

BAPTISTS PLEDGE TOTAL OF $83,000 FOR BUILDING FUND

MAKE BIG REDUCTION IN INDEBTEDNESS INCURRED FOR NEW STRUCTURE.

DR. TRUETT SPEAKS ON THEME OF "STEWARDSHIP"

Meetings Conducted by Him Close Sunday Night—Total of [illegible] Conversions.

A total of $83,[illegible] pledges for the building fund of the new First Baptist church was raised at Sunday morning's service, following the sermon by Dr. George Truett. With the exception of a $50,000 note, endorsed by a number of the members, Sunday morning's subscriptions make the building plant debt-free, and it is expected to discharge the remaining obligation within the next few years.

A total of $75,000 had been desired at the session, but that mark was exceeded by $8,[illegible].

Dr. Truett's subject Sunday morning was "Stewardship," his text being "Feed Your Shepherds to the Lord."

So far as all the series of meetings conducted by Dr. Truett came to a close, there seems to always during the week's revival. The text Sunday night was, "I Have Set Before Thee the Way."

The church was packed to its limits [illegible] many were compelled to stand outside to listen.

MRS. MARY ROBERTS RINEHART UNDERGOES AN OPERATION

NEW YORK, June 27—Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart, novelist and playwright, who underwent an operation yesterday, was reported in a satisfactory condition today. Her physicians said she passed a fairly comfortable night.

1 HOME DESTROYED, ANOTHER DAMAGED, TOTAL LOSS $20,000

A total loss estimated as being in excess of $20,000 was sustained at the homes of W. L. Smith and J. T. Ricks, 2[illegible] and 2[illegible] Pearl street, when fire believed to have originated from a [illegible] lamp swept through the two structures at midnight Sunday, completely destroying the former and causing heavy damage at the latter.

The flames originated in the Smith home and took the heaviest toll in property loss there. The family was awakened by smoke and had time to remove a few light articles of furniture before being forced to vacate. Some chairs, a victrola and one or two other pieces were gotten out, but by far the larger portion of furnishings were consumed.

According to Mr. Smith the loss to house and furnishings will approximate $15,000, part of which is covered by insurance.

The Ricks residence was fired by burning splinters and sparks which were carried directly toward it by a strong wind. The roof was badly damaged and the interior soaked with water, entailing a loss in the neighborhood of $5,000.

Fire apparatus from stations two, three and four answered the alarm but were unable to make much headway against the flames because of lack of water. The nearest fire plug was located three blocks away, according to firemen, which necessitated the splicing of a hose lead before water could be obtained. The blaze in the Smith home had already reached large proportions, however, before the alarm was turned in.

OIL MEN TO MAKE PLANS FOR SECURING CRUDE OIL TARIFF

TO CONVENE TUESDAY AT NOON AT KEMP HOTEL—WILL GRAY OF TULSA TO SPEAK.

IS FIRST OF SERIES OF TARIFF CONFERENCES

Similar Meetings, Affecting Other Industries to be Held at Several Southern Cities.

Oil men of northwest Texas will convene here at noon Tuesday in what is to be the first of a series of conferences throughout the south, under the auspices of the Southern Tariff association, to work for a protective tariff on crude oil.

The meeting will be held in the mezzanine dining-room of the Kemp at noon and C. W. Reed will preside. Will Gray of Tulsa, chairman of the petroleum division of the association, will be the principal speaker.

"There is a good fighting chance to win when the tariff comes up again in August," said Vance Muse, manager of the tariff organization, who arrived Monday to attend the meeting, "if the oil men who are directly affected will just get behind this move and, giving it loyal support, they can get the protection they need so badly."

The meeting here will be followed in July by tariff meetings at New Orleans, Greensboro, N. C.; Jackson, Miss.; Richmond, Va.; Columbia, S. C., and Montgomery, Ala. President Harding will probably attend one of these meetings.

After leaving here Mr. Gray will speak at oil tariff meetings at Fort Worth and Breckenridge. The Southern Tariff association represents about sixty commodities affected by the present tariff, in 18 states.

The situation in Washington is explained in a telegram from J. A. Arnold to C. A. Kleinman of this city, as follows:

"Sentiment in congress here and among republicans is definitely committed to a general policy of protection. The ways and means committee is divided and apparently in factions, but the senate finance committee will write the tariff bill, and it will reach them about August 1. In the meantime there is much work to do and activities to be financed. The navy must have oil, and as a war necessity the government must keep the oil wells flowing. If your people will join other towns in making the fight, we can win all the 60 industries associated with our organization will aid you, and we are holding tariff congresses throughout the south. Bring your condition to the attention of the south."

Notices on the meeting have been sent out by Mr. Kleinman to 700 oil men in this city and section, calling attention to the importance of prompt action.

The meetings originally planned for Iowa Park and Burkburnett Tuesday will not be held. J. D. Parnell will speak at the Electra meeting.

BELIEVE LAWRENCE KILLED TEN PEOPLE AND THEN HIMSELF

MAYFIELD, KY., June 27.—County authorities today said they were working on the theory that Ernest Lawrence murdered ten persons in his farm home near here Saturday night, drenched the house with oil, set it on fire and then killed himself.

Investigation has revealed, they announced, that Lawrence a number of years ago was clubbed by a policeman in Mayfield when he resisted arrest on a charge of intoxication, and since then suffered from what Sheriff McCuar described as "spells" which might have developed into a fit of insanity.

Lawrence's own family, the family of Guy Drew, his brother-in-law, and Drew's brother, Delmar Drew, were victims of the fire.

Two charred bodies of the dead, two women, three men, five infant boys and one infant girl were badly burned and no trace of violence could be found.

SEVENTEEN CARS OF WHEAT ARE LOADED IN WILBARGER

VERNON, TEXAS, June 27.—Wheat is being loaded out of Vernon comparatively rapid and five cars were filled last Thursday. That quantity represents nearly 6,000 bushels, or about 80 wagon loads. Five carloads of wheat were likewise shipped from Harrold Thursday. Oklaunion loaded out seven cars on the same day.

The yield appears to run reasonably uniform in different parts of the county. Reports indicate an average of 12 to 14 bushels to the acre. The highest yield reported is 26 bushels. The price being paid is $1.15 a bushel, which is better than many expected 30 days ago.

TO INQUIRE INTO CREDIT FACILITIES FOR COTTON CROP

WASHINGTON, June 27.—President Harding has requested Secretaries Mellon and Hoover and Eugene Meyer, Jr., managing director of the war finance corporation, to investigate credit facilities in the south with regard to the carrying over of surplus stocks until they can be marketed in an orderly way.

In making this announcement today Secretary Hoover said the committee would begin preliminary inquiry immediately upon the return of Mr. Meyer, who is now in New York. He said he had no definite program in mind as to what lines the investigation would follow.

The plan of the administration to undertake to obtain credits for carrying over the surpluses of cotton and sugar was disclosed by Mr. Hoover Saturday before a senate committee. He said the plan contemplated was similar to that undertaken in the cattle industry which is to be aided by a pool to be raised by eastern and western bankers.

CONFERENCE CALLED TO PLAN OPERATION OF BUDGET SYSTEM

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Secretaries and assistant secretaries of all executive departments, heads of independent government bureaus, chief clerks of all departments and chiefs of all departmental bureaus were called today by Charles G. Dawes, director of the budget, to meet him in conference tomorrow as a preliminary step toward co-ordinating government expenditures. The call was issued, Mr. Dawes said, by director of President Harding.

President Harding will preside at a meeting Wednesday afternoon of all government officials dealing with preparation of estimates of expenditure for congress. The meeting was called today at the direction of the president by Charles G. Dawes, director of the budget.

Those included in the call are the secretaries of the executive departments and assistant secretaries, heads of various independent commissions and bureaus outside the departmental structure, chief clerks of the departments and the chiefs of the departmental bureaus. Mr. Dawes said the conference would be a preliminary step toward co-ordination of government expenditures.

CARIBBEAN SEA STORM REPORTED MOVING INLAND

WASHINGTON, June 27.—A special bulletin issued this morning by the weather bureau said pressure had risen over the northwestern Caribbean sea and that the disturbance there apparently had moved inland over British Honduras south of Belize. Fresh to strong easterly winds continue over the northwestern Caribbean sea, the bulletin added, but probably will diminish within the next 24 hours.

City police officials expressed confidence Monday afternoon that the Chevrolet touring car stolen from Judge A. H. Carrigan Sunday night would be recovered within a few days. The machine passed through Decatur, Texas, at 6:30 o'clock Monday morning according to tips received from that place later in the day, and was apparently headed for either Fort Worth or Dallas.

Police officials of the latter towns have been notified and have promised to apprehend the thief in case it comes to their attention.

PLEA OF FORMER JEOPARDY IN THE TOM CROW CASE

SAN ANTONIO, June 27.—A plea of former jeopardy was again offered by Tom Crow, convicted following his arraignment here this morning on a charge of possessing Mrs. Ora Parker, July 25, 1920. The plea has been twice overruled and Judge W. S. Anderson instructed the jury that the defendant pleaded not guilty. The plea is made on the contention that Crow was legally placed in jeopardy before a negro jury who was excused during Crow's trial, after which Crow was sentenced to be hanged over a year ago. The case was reversed and remanded to the criminal court of the county for a new trial.

TEMPORARY ORDER AGAINST 4 POLICE DISSOLVED BY COURT

JUDGE NAPIER FINDS FOR DEFENDANTS IN CASE BROUGHT BY WOMEN

POLICE CHIEF TESTIFIES AS TO HIS ATTITUDE

Says Order to Make Arrests Was Due To Effort to Close Resorts

Judge Napier dissolved the temporary injunction against the city police officers which restrained them from molesting the plaintiffs Gladys Avinger and Fay Moore from enjoying the full privileges of the premises on Lake street late this afternoon. It was a victory for the police department. The case had been on trial since Saturday morning.

Chief of Police Lee Huff gave instructions to his men to break up the disorderly houses and also to break up the pimps and outlaws that hang around such resorts according to his testimony given in the hearing of the injunction suit of Gladys Avinger et al vs A F Bridgewater et al which was continued Monday morning from Saturday.

The chief stated that in a conversation with Gladys Avinger she told me that she thought she had as much right to operate on Lake street as those that are running in town. He said she didn't deny what she was doing there but stated that she wanted to get along with the law as best she could.

As explanation of the testimony given by Attorney John Davenport last Saturday the chief stated that he told the woman that as long as the hoodlum and the city jail would let him he would try to break up the business of prostitution in the district known as the flats.

Mr Huff exhibited a receipt from Minnie Turner which related that the $50 that was slipped into Officer Bridgewater's coat pocket had been returned to him by the chief.

D M Farrell a former member of the city police force stated that he quit the force because Bridgewater with whom he was working wanted him to double cross the women in the district in order that they might be able to arrest them.

W P Bellew O L Smart and A Cossack the other three defendants in the suit took the stand Monday morning. They all testified as to the reputation of Bridgewater as an officer and as to his reputation truth and veracity and stated that it was good.

The defendants testified that the times that the plaintiffs were arrested and admitted that in two instances the plaintiffs were arrested in the crowded house upon the request of Officer Bridgewater and that at the time of their arrest the plaintiffs were not doing anything to violate the law.

The case was filed at 12 o'clock until 1 30.

At a late hour Monday afternoon the injunction suit against the city police officers in the 78th district court had not been concluded.

Counsel for the plaintiff asked Commissioner W G Bailey why it was that four or five houses in the so called flat district were granted clemency while others were persecuted at all times. The commissioner answered that he did not know that there were any houses that were granted leniency.

Judge Napier asked the witness why it was that a large number of cases at the city court were not tried. City Attorney Mann took the stand and testified that he filed many as city attorney and that he could not go to trial on all of them because he stated in many cases witnesses were absent and sometimes the defendants.

He also stated that it was his plan to file complaint against the owners of houses in the restricted district for running a bawdy house in the county court at law.

COURT TO DISPATCH MAN WITH TRANSCRIPT TO AUSTIN IMMEDIATELY

Announcement

It is generally conceded that grave conditions confront the independent producers and refiners of oil. It is necessary now to fight for their very existence. It is imperative that we organize solidly to present our claims in the next session of the senate in August, when a Tariff Bill will again be presented.

At a big mass meeting of the Southern Tariff Association, to be held at 12 o'clock sharp, at the Kemp Hotel Mezzanine Dining Room, Tuesday, June 28th, 1921, important facts affecting the business will be presented. It is in the interest of, as well as the duty of, every oil man in Wichita Falls territory to attend this meeting without fail.

A BIG FIGURE.

A few months ago Isaac Marcosson wrote of Jan Smuts, the premier of British, South Africa, and pronounced him one of the biggest men and one of the most far-seeing in the entire British Empire.

Smuts is so far removed from us, so far out of the beaten path of direct American interests that it is only occasionally we get a glimpse of him or his works. Last Tuesday at the British imperial conference, which is being held in London, Smuts gave true indication of the size of man he is.

In this speech, which is the high light of the meeting of the prime ministers of the British empire, Smuts dwells but little on the headway that has been made since the signing of the Versailles treaty—that is water gone over the dam. But he does emphasize what he thinks the future holds in store for the world.

"We have won on the field of battle," said Smuts. "Armaments depend upon policy, and therefore I press very strongly that our policy be such as to make a race for armaments impossible. * * * The most fatal mistake of all would be a race of armaments against America. America is the nation closest to us all in human ties. The Dominions look upon her as the oldest of them all. She is the relation with whom we most closely agree and with whom we can most cordially work. * * * To my mind the only path of safety for the British Empire is a path on which she can walk together with America. * * * We wish to see a real society of nations, away from old ideas and practices of national dominations or imperial dominations which were the real root and causes of the great war. We wish to remove grounds for misunderstandings and causes of friction and to bring together all of the free peoples of the world in a system of friendly conferences and consultations in regard to their difficulties."

All of which sounds very much like the argument for a league of nations—a world wherein people are not overburdened with taxes for wars past and present, where differences are settled by discussion and not by the sword.

After giving expression of his hopes for the future relations of the British Empire with America, Smuts gave as his belief that the scene of the world stage will be shifted to the far east for the next fifty years. "The question is whether these coming years will be on the old order or whether our souls shall have been purged in the fires through which we have passed. Will it be a future of friendly co-ordination and peaceful co-operation of all the vast interests at stake? Shall we act in continuous friendly consultation, in the true spirit of a society of nations or will there be once more a repetition of rival groups, of exclusive alliances and finally of a terrible catastrophe more fatal than the one we have passed through."

In conclusion Mr. Smuts said regarding the league of nations, "There is one chapter which should be specially sacred to the British Empire. That is the first chapter of the league of nations. The covenant may be faulty, it may need amendment in order to make it more workable and more generally acceptable, but let us never forget that the covenant embodies the most deeply felt longings of the human race for a better life."

Jan Smuts is a big man and isolated though he is on a far point of the globe, away from the trafficing of the world, away from the worn paths of men he has looked for and found the solutions of what the world needs. His mind is clear and his heart responsive. He is right, the old order has passed, the new is upon us. We now stand at the parting of the ways. One road will take us over the same old ground, the other will take the human race to its goal of world peace, nearer to the ideal of the brotherhood of man.

The league of nations over which the senate so long debated may be dead but the principles of which it was made are more alive today than ever.

WHY IS A CHAIRMAN?

Poor old Colonel William Cooper Proctor has troubles of his own. Early in 1920 the good soapmaker entered the president making business. As an amateur he gathered amateurs about him. They were desirous of bringing about the nomination of Leonard Wood. They felt certain that the way to do this was to tell the public, through newspaper advertising, how fully qualified they felt the able general to be for the position.

So they spent money like drunken sailors. The general was defeated but the bills had to be paid. Colonel Proctor was a millionaire as well as chairman of the Wood forces. He paid the bills with what money he had and when that ran out he went to the bank and signed the notes. Being a trustful soul and a ready signer the amounts never gave him a thought apparently—until now.

A few days ago he filed suit in the superior court at Chicago against the other members of his committee, which he claims have never paid one cent toward the expenses of the campaign. He is asking for $74,[illegible] from them, a tidy sum.

Being an amateur Colonel Proctor thinks that he will possibly get a portion of this amount, but he thinks it only because he is an amateur. He is a fine citizen, a wonderfully successful business man whose greatest contributions to society have been making a good brand of soap and proper work in bettering the condition of workmen in his factories. In the latter field he has been so successful that a strike is unknown in the Proctor and Gamble factories. His workmen have representatives on the board of directors of his company, they all share in the profits and they really have a say in the running of the business. In the former he has helped a world to keep clean.

Both have been accomplishments worthy of emulation. They indicate that he is a man of great size and vision as well as practical knowledge. But in politics he is a dub. He should know that the only reason any man is ever made chairman of any political effort is either his ability to supply or to find the money.

Attorney General Daugherty plans to ask congress for $250,000 to press prosecutions of 1500 individuals and corporations alleged to be involved in nation-wide combinations revealed during the building trust inquiry. The list of prospective defendants includes some of the largest manufacturers, jobbers and dealers in paints, cement, iron, erecting materials, stone, marble and other building supplies. Whether congress will or not supply this money is hard to say, and even if it does the prosecutions may not be effective in securing many convictions, but the gesture of the plan alone will have a salutary effect in breaking up the present combinations. With a shortage of houses all over the country and thousands of men idle, who should be employed in caring for this need any illegal tactics of hold-up nature should constitute a crime worthy of capital punishment.

It is interesting to note that Wichita Falls is one of the 38 cities in the United States from which Bradstreets receives and publishes weekly reports of trade conditions. We may be far distant from the financial centers but there is importance enough in the business activities of this center to warrant record on the part of this great mercantile and credit agency.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

Good Night

How many times we've said good night
And kissed her as we turned away,
Knowing that with the morning light
She'd greet the beauty of the day.

We left her sleeping in her bed
And tiptoed gently from her room
And when the soft "good night" was said
The parting brought no touch of gloom.

She would be there when we should rise
To greet us with her lovely smile,
The sunbeams dancing in her eyes,
And night seemed such a little while

Her spirit, till the break of day,
Would leave this little world of ours
For brighter realms wherein to play
Where fairies danced among the flowers.

Sometimes we watched her as she dreamed
And knew that she was free from care,
And always lovelier she seemed
When morning found her smiling there.

"Good night, good night, sweet Marjorie!"
We will be brave with you away.
Some glad tomorrow there shall be,
We'll come to you at break of day.

WHY?—

Are Some Londoners Called "Cockneys?"

(Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

As used by writers of the Elizabethan period, the word "cockney" meant a molly-coddle, an effeminate person, a child that had been "cockled" or coddled too much by its mother. Then, because men who lived in the city were supposed to be less virile and strong than those who lived in the country, the rural population commenced to apply the term to the residents of London and other cities throughout England. Gradually this meaning was restricted and localized until it was understood as being applicable only to Londoners, or as one writer of the period phrases it, "particularly to connote the characteristics in which the born Londoner is supposed to be inferior to other Englishmen." The opposite term—the one applied by the townsmen to the farmer—was "clown," meaning an uncouth, ill-bred man.

Today, the name of cockney is applied generally to Londoners, but more specifically to those of a certain class—'Arry and 'Arriet being typical of the class which is supposed to drop its h's or to insert them where they do not belong. But anyone who has come in contact with the cockney as he is today will testify to the fact that it is a far cry from him to the theoretically effeminate personage of the Elizabethan period. The London cockney may not be well educated or extremely refined in his speech, but he is emphatically not a molly-coddle.

HUMANISMS

Inner Lights on Lives and Whims of Personages in the Public Eye

By WILLIAM ATHERTON DU PUY

"If I were allowed to select one quality with which my son should be endowed," Senator John B. Kendrick, of Wyoming, told me, "I would choose courage, physical and moral.

"The man who is without courage may get on under ordinary conditions, but eventually the emergency comes which requires that a man should be standing by—and he fails.

"It is strange how quiet men of true courage usually are. I suppose their forces are held in reserve.

"I have not met more than half a dozen men in my life who were of this quality to be entirely satisfying to me and most of these were quite obscure."

Surgeon General Hugh S. Cummings, of the public health service, has traveled all over the world during the past 25 years, has lived in the Orient, in Europe, in Boston, in San Francisco. He no sooner addresses you, however, than it becomes evident that he is a native of Tidewater Virginia.

The surgeon general is a sandy person of obviously Scotch extraction, is very tall, slender and graceful, is a model of courtesy. He sees the part the United States would play in an international organization from a new angle.

"More service would be rendered humanity, it seems to me," he says, "through carrying to the nations of the world the lessons that America has learned in sanitation than in any other way. That world admits that we of them all have advanced fastest and furthest in sanitation."

He had grown up as one of six children in the family of a Baptist minister. Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, says, and had managed to get through Dartmouth college. It used to be an unwritten requirement for graduation at Dartmouth that a man work one summer as a waiter on a resort hotel, teach a winter school or spend a vacation as a book agent. He met the requirements, for he did all three.

Then, after he graduated, he got a job as reporter on a newspaper in Concord at $9 a week. He paid $6 a month for a room and $3.50 a week for board. This left him $4 a week all his own and it was so much money that he had no idea what to do with it.

The History of Your Name

TYSON.

Variation—Dyson.
Racial Origin—Middle English.
Source—A baptismal name.

The family name of Tyson is one of those which have developed from baptismal names which are virtually obsolete today, but which were very common at those periods in the middle ages in which family names began to take shape.

It's a long stretch from Dionisius to Tyson, but that's really what it developed from.

Tyson is one of those names which became a family name at a fairly early period, though it by no means belongs in the earliest classification, which is composed almost entirely of Anglo-Saxon names. It belongs to the period when the Norman influence was still strong, but those of Norman blood had begun to regard themselves as Englishmen, dropping French as the "everyday" language. This is established by the fact that Dionisius was distinctly Norman, while the ending "son" shows the reassertion of the Anglo-Saxon tongue.

Dionisius was variously abbreviated in the Norman-French speech into the nicknames Denis, Denot and Dyot. From the latter developed Dyotson, which at a later period was shortened by many families to Dyon, and finally changed by others to Tyson. The latter is the more common form in this country today.

The name often is erroneously explained as having originated from Tony, or Antony, but historical records show no such connection, while the path back to Dionisius may be traced step by step.

Tomorrow—Beck.

THE ADVENTURE OF BLACK PETER

By A. CONAN DOYLE

Copyright, 1921, by Harper & Bros. Published by special arrangement with The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

PART ONE

I have never known my friend to be in better form, both mental and physical, than in the year '95. His increasing fame had brought with it an immense practice, and I should be guilty of an indiscretion if I were even to hint at the identity of some of the illustrious clients who crossed our humble threshold in Baker street. Holmes, however like all great artists lived for his art's sake and save in the case of the Duke of Holderness I have seldom known him to claim any large reward for his inestimable services. So unworldly was he—or so capricious—that he frequently refused his help to the powerful and wealthy where the problem made no appeal to his sympathies, while he would devote weeks of most intense application to the affairs of some humble client whose case presented those strange and dramatic qualities which appealed to his imagination and challenged his ingenuity.

In this memorable year '95 a curious and incongruous succession of cases had engaged his attention ranging from his famous investigation of the sudden death of Cardinal Tosca—an inquiry which was carried out by him at the express desire of His Holiness the Pope—down to the arrest of Wilson, the notorious canary-trainer, which removed a plague-spot from the East End of London. Close on the heels of these two famous cases came the tragedy of Woodman's Lee and the very obscure circumstances which surrounded the death of Captain Peter Carey. No record of the doings of Mr. Sherlock Holmes would be complete which did not include some account of this very unusual affair.

During the first week of July, my friend had been absent so often and so long from our lodgings that I knew he had something on hand. The fact that several rough-looking men called during that time and inquired for Captain Basil made me understand that Holmes was working somewhere under one of the numerous disguises and names with which he concealed his own formidable identity. He had at least five small retreats in different parts of London in which he was able to change his personality. He said nothing of his business to me, and it was not my habit to force a confidence. The first positive sign which he gave me of the direction which his investigation was taking was an extraordinary one. He had gone out before breakfast, and I had sat down to mine when he strode into the room, his hat upon his head and a huge barbed-headed spear tucked like an umbrella under his arm.

"Good gracious, Holmes!" I cried. "You don't mean to say that you have been walking about London with that thing?"

"I drove to the butcher's and back."

"The butcher's?"

"And I return with an excellent appetite. There can be no question my dear Watson, of the value of exercise before breakfast. But I am prepared to bet that you will not guess the form that my exercise has taken."

"I will not attempt it."

He chuckled as he poured out the coffee.

"If you could have looked into Allardyce's back shop you would have seen a dead pig swung from a hook in the ceiling and a gentleman in his shirt sleeves furiously stabbing at it with this weapon. I was that energetic person, and I have satisfied myself that by no exertion of my strength can I transfix the pig with a single blow. Perhaps you would care to try?"

"Not for worlds. But why were you doing this?"

"Because it seemed to me to have an indirect bearing upon the mystery of Woodman's Lee. Ah, Hopkins, I got your wire last night, and I have been expecting you. Come and join us."

Our visitor was an exceedingly alert man, thirty years of age, dressed in a quiet tweed suit, but retaining the erect bearing of one who was accustomed to official uniform. I recognized him at once as Stanley Hopkins, a young police inspector, for whose future Holmes had high hopes, while he in turn professed the admiration and respect of a pupil for the scientific methods of the famous amateur. Hopkins' brow was clouded, and he sat down with an air of deep dejection.

"No, thank you, sir. I breakfasted before I came round. I spent the night in town, for I came up yesterday to report."

"And what had you to report?"

"Failure, sir, absolute failure."

"You have made no progress?"

"None."

"Dear me! I must have a look at the matter."

"I wish to Heaven that you would, Mr. Holmes. It's my first big chance and I am at my wits' end. For goodness' sake, come down and lend me a hand."

"Well, well, it just happens that I have already read all the available evidence, including the report of the inquest, with some care. By the way, what do you make of that tobacco-pouch, found on the scene of the crime? Is there no clue there?"

Hopkins looked surprised.

"It was the man's own pouch, sir. His initials were inside it. And it was of sealskin—and he was an old sealer."

"But he had no pipe."

"No sir, we could find no pipe. Indeed, he smoked very little and yet he might have kept some tobacco for his friends."

"No doubt. I only mention it because if I had been handling the case, I should have been inclined to make that the starting point of my investigation. However, my friend, Dr. Watson, knows nothing of this matter and I should be none the worse for hearing the sequence of events once more. Just give us some short sketches of the essentials."

Stanley Hopkins drew a slip of paper from his pocket.

"I have a few dates here which will give you the career of the dead man, Captain Peter Carey. He was born in '45—fifty years of age. He was a most daring and successful seal and whale fisher. In 1883 he commanded the steam sealer Sea Unicorn, of Dundee. He had then had several successful voyages in succession, and in the following year, 1884 he retired. After that he traveled for some years, and finally he bought a small place called Woodman's Lee, near Forest Row, in Sussex. There he has lived for six years, and there he died just a week ago today.

"There was some most singular points about the man. In ordinary life, he was a strict Puritan—a silent, gloomy fellow. His household consisted of his wife, his daughter, aged twenty, and two female servants. These last were continually changing, for it was never a very cheery situation, and sometimes it became past all bearing. The man was an intermittent drunkard, and when he had the fit on him he was a perfect fiend. He has been known to drive his wife and daughter out of doors in the middle of the night and flog them through the park until the whole village outside the gates was aroused by their screams.

"He was summoned once for a savage assault upon the old vicar, who had called upon him to remonstrate with him upon his conduct. In short, Mr. Holmes, you would go far before you found a more dangerous man than Peter Carey, and I have heard that he bore the same character when he commanded his ship. He was known in the trade as Black Peter, and the name was given him, not only on account of his swarthy features and the color of his huge beard, but for the humors which were the terror of all around him. I need not say that he was loathed and avoided by every one of his neighbors, and that I have not heard one single word of sorrow about his terrible end."

Spudders Take Final Game of Series From Bears By 4 to 3 Count

Special to The Times.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, June 26.—Darrough, though wild, held San Antonio scoreless until the eighth inning Sunday when the Bears made a belated rally and knocked him from the box. Hollingsworth stemmed the threat and Wichita Falls won the last game, and the series, 4 to 3.

The game was full of excitement. Twenty-four players were used, 14 by the Bears, and 24 men were left on the paths, 14 by the Bears. The Spudders left three men stranded in the fifth and the Bruins allowed a trio to remain on the cushions in the sixth and the eighth.

Mutt Williams was not right and the Spudders peppered him with hits in the early innings, finally causing his retirement in the fourth, after four runs had been made off his delivery.

Beecher started the game with a hit to right and Danny Gross sacrificed. Ewell Gross barely knocked down Rothfuss' liner, Beecher taking third. Rothfuss was thrown out at second when Clark missed the ball on the hit and run, but Clark's single a moment later scored Beecher. Clark stole. McDonald walked and Miller singled, bringing in the second run of the inning. McDonald was run down after being caught off third.

Fancy catches by Rothfuss and Beecher prevented a Bear run after two hits in the first inning.

Two More in Fourth

In the fourth, Kitchens singled to center with one out. Darrough, with three and two on him, doubled over Boone's head, scoring Kitchens. Beecher's hit scored Darrough and knocked Williams from the mound. Beecher stole but Gross filled to Boone.

The Spudders threatened in all but two subsequent innings, but failed to add to their run total.

The Bears likewise were full of threats but could not do anything worth while until the eighth.

Walks to Nee and Gross with one out in this frame started the trouble. Nee took third when Kitchens pegged wild to second to catch him off. Hruska bumped the left field fence with a single that scored Nee. McDonald pulled a boner when, after taking Brock's grounder, he let Gross take third and forced Hruska at second. Boone's hit over short counted Gross. Brock scored when Beecher got only a couple of finger tips on Henry's double to right, whereupon Hollingsworth went in to pitch. Fuller was passed on four straight balls but Connolly grounded out to McDonald.

Nee got as far as second in the Bears' ninth on a hit and infield out, but Hruska whiffed to end the game. The infield was slow as the result of Saturday's rain.

RUTH WILL CROSS DEFENSE BY LAYING 'EM DOWN

NEW YORK, June 27.—The sight of Babe Ruth, the home run king, laying down a bunt along the third base line is likely to become more familiar to fans around the American league circuit than heretofore.

Several clubs have adopted a special defense against the slugger, moving the third baseman toward the shortstop sector, the shortstop to second base, with the second baseman playing in short right field. Noting this, Manager Huggins and Ruth believe they can "cross" their opponents with an occasional bunt and succeeded in drawing them back into positions making longer hits easier to obtain. Ruth on two or three occasions this week tried out the scheme.

SPORT SHOTS

By Paul W. Larkin

"Still over .500 and going strong. Walter leaving for St Louis tonight. May have something good for you in next few days." (Signed) J. Will Gray.

We received the above telegram from Will today and it speaks for itself. Everybody is aware of the fact that the boys are still over the .500 mark and still going strong.

They haven't been going better all year than at the present time. They're fighting tooth and nail and are winning games on pure grit. It's a cinch that they're not getting the hurling, but they're winning ball games just the same. They're pennant mad.

But despite the wonderful ball they have been playing for the past month they are not getting very far ahead. They have passed five clubs in their dash and bid fair to pass the sixth before long, but they're just as far away from the top as they were a month ago. When they were in the cellar last month they were only 10 games away from the top—the same margin that separates them from the Panthers today. Conditions are about the same as last year. We can't get any help from the other clubs.

The Spudders are carded to meet the Panthers nine times inside of three weeks next month and there's no doubt but that the winner of the majority of those games will play Memphis (?) for the Dixie championship. If the Panthers take five of them, it will be next to impossible to overtake them. But if we take five or six, there will be some merry scrambling in August.

We printed Will's telegram in full, so are just as much in the dark as to real purpose of Walter's trip to St. Louis as the next man, but we'll gamble that he has the coming series with the Panthers in mind and will leave no stone unturned to strengthen the club. He's undoubtedly after a hurler and first sacker. If he can get only one, we hope it will be the slabster.

There'll be a big delegation of local fans in Fort Worth next Sunday. There has been some talk of chartering a special train, thereby getting excursion rates. Nearly everyone to whom we have talked on the subject has stated that he or she (and there are plenty of the latter) is going either for Sunday's game or Monday's twin bill—and many will stay over for both.

The airdome had the biggest crowd of the year yesterday and they were a wild bunch of bugs. There was all kinds of excitement for two hours. One well known "Kitchens booster" received a terrible razzing. His idol fell down woefully several times, but the booster always came up smiling. He's thinking of switching his affections at last.

Two out of three from Beaumont and all will be well. The boys haven't got Bailey to beat anyway. That'll help a whole lot.

Bill Brennan Made Champion Extend Himself Twice

The only boxer that ever got a real good day's work out of Jack Dempsey was Bill Brennan. Usually Jack knocks an opponent out in the first two or three rounds and collects his day's wages. But somehow or other Bill is one of those fellows who can't get to sleep right away. Once it took six rounds for Dempsey to quiet his nerves and on another occasion Bill remained away twice that long.

This second occasion was last December at Madison Square Garden. Brennan was sure feeling fine that night. He acted as though he had just taken a shower under the Fountain of Youth and instead of sticking around wondering which way to dodge next, he stepped up and showed the champion all his stuff.

Some of it didn't seem to sit very well with the king of fighters. Early in the bout Brennan handed him a wallop that for a moment seemed to daze the head that wore the crown. A little later on his glove slashed Dempsey's mouth and after a while other corpuscles began to take the air in the vicinity of the champion's ear.

The experts said Brennan carried the fight to Dempsey for ten rounds. Some skeptics believed the champion tarried that long to give the movie fans a treat. Other people whispered that the real low down on the thing was that Dempsey had not trained hard for the scrap and was not in good condition. The fact remained that none of his caveman punches were in evidence during the early part of the fight.

He assembled one of these wallops in his left arm during the 12th round and let it loose upon Brennan, squarely amidship. The big challenger's body assumed the posture of a half-opened pocket-knife, his head dropping almost to his knees. Fighting hard against the approaching end, he spread out his legs and remained up. While swaying in this position Brennan received a sound smash on the jaw and fell to the floor.

Their Former Ring Battles

Number Eight

DEMPSEY

Dempsey won the title like a virile, two-fisted fighter and it was believed that he would box often, without quibbling as to terms and guarantees. But he, like many other champions, realized that the time for reaping a financial harvest would not last forever, and, guided by Kearns, was out to "get his."

A theatrical tour which the pair undertook did not result in a "killing," however, for Dempsey, the fighter, was a far different person from Dempsey, the actor. The motion pictures, however, offered him [illegible]. Trouble with draft officials which finally resulted in the clearing of his name from the charge of evading military service, also occupied considerable time.

Dempsey did not enter the ring in a formal contest as champion until Sept. 6, 1920, when he met Billy Miske, St. Paul light heavyweight, in a bout at Benton Harbor, Mich. He had met Miske twice before in no-decision bouts of ten and six rounds. The match turned out as anticipated, an easy victory for Dempsey by a knockout in three rounds.

The bout, however, drew a "gate" of $134,904 and served to replenish the Dempsey-Kearns coffers to the amount of $55,600.

CARPENTIER

The sensational knockout of Wells by Carpentier made the Frenchman more than ever the "Pet of Paris." Everywhere he was greeted as a conqueror with adulation that would have done no good to a man less balanced in judgment. He was the first Frenchman to achieve international prominence in boxing, which is not primarily a French sport.

Carpentier fought Jeff Smith, the American middle and light heavyweight, in Paris shortly after the first Wells battle and defeated him in 20 rounds. Wells, in the meantime, was demanding a return battle and Carpentier readily acquiesced.

They met the second time at the National Sporting club in London, Dec. 8, 1913. The betting was "even" for England still refused to believe that this slender Frenchman was really a match for Wells. Wells was nervous. His knees shook as he looked across the ring at the cool, smiling Carpentier.

Carpentier spent no time "feeling out" his man. Out of his corner like a bullet, he whipped in savage blows to the heart and stomach, centering his fire on the mid-section. Wells, in desperation, stuck out his right. Carpentier slid under it and blazed away with a blow to the heart. Wells' knees sagged. Carpentier hooked a right and left to the jaw. Wells went down for the count. The bout had lasted less than one minute.

Now, more than ever, French joy knew no bounds. Pictures of Carpentier festooned Paris. Sculptors made him their model. Statuettes of the boxer adorned automobiles. More than ever, he was the "Idol of France."

ENGLISH SEA CAPTAIN WON FORTUNE ON $2.75

Captain Alban Jones, R. N., resigned who won 69,000 pounds ($269,100) on a $2.75 ticket of the Calcutta Sweepstakes on this year's English Derby. Captain Jones, who is assistant marine superintendent of the Union Castle Line, had never before placed a penny on any horse. He is a retired sea captain and declares he will not give up his present post, in spite of his winning the large fortune. Humorist is the horse that brought the fortune to Captain Jones.

NO MORE HARD WORK UNTIL SATURDAY

Champion to Take Things Easy Until Day of Bout—Was Never in Better Condition.

ATLANTIC CITY, June 27.—Hard work is over for Jack Dempsey until he enters the ring at Bayle's 30 acres next Saturday afternoon to defend his title against Georges Carpentier, champion of Europe. The champion is resting today, having finished his heavy work with the gloves yesterday. His final boxing tomorrow and Wednesday will be to speed him up and sharpen his judgment of distance.

Members of the champion's camp are well satisfied with his condition and their smiles tell of the confidence of those close to the titleholder. Jack Kearns, manager of the champion, and Teddy Hayes, his trainer, believe that Dempsey's hitting power and speed are at the proper edge and he will pick up speed during the final three days of the tapering off process.

Dempsey is beginning to shown signs of nervousness and irritability, which indicate, his handlers say, that he is rapidly rounding into perfect fighting condition. The long strain of training apparently is getting on his nerves and his handlers are planning to humor him along as carefully as possible for the next four days.

"He could go in there tomorrow and fight," Manager Kearns said. "He never was in better condition. Our hardest task has been to keep him from overdoing his work. I never felt more confident of a victory than I do now. Dempsey is prepared to box 12 rounds if necessary, but I hope it won't be necessary. Jack feels the same way about it."

Dempsey worked more impressively yesterday, when he boxed seven rounds, than he did on Saturday, when some experts thought he worked a trifle slow and listlessly. Battling Nelson, the former lightweight champion, who sat coatless in the press stand, expressed the opinion that the titleholder is a much better fighter than when he won the championship from Jess Willard at Toledo two years ago.

MORE MYSTERY IN CARPENTIER CAMP

Frenchman is Let Loose But Action is Behind Closed Portals.

MANHASSET, June 27.—Training in the camp of Georges Carpentier took on a mysterious aspect again this morning. Soon after Georges came in from the woods the police guards were thrown about the camp and things began to hum behind the barn.

Manager Descamps as usual refused to tell what was happening. He said, however, that Carpentier was working hard and had been let loose. His sparring session was on the afternoon program and it was announced that the heavyweights who should have arrived late last week were on the job at last.

Experienced experts who have been sizing up the challengers physical characteristics vary in their opinion of whether Georges heavy underpinning will stand him well or prove a handicap in the battle with Dempsey next Saturday.

For a man weighing not more than 175 pounds heavy calves are somewhat rare and seldom have been noted on successful heavyweights. Excepting one or two champions, one of whom was Jim Jeffries, it was recalled that most all of them did not have large legs.

A size up of the present champion shows his calves to be much smaller than those of Carpentier. These experts who have followed pugilism for years always have contended that heavy calves were a handicap to heavyweights. It is their argument that such a leg slows their footwork. Others however argue that his heavy underpinning will aid him to hold his feet in a heavy bombardment of Dempsey's punches.

Elks Win Short Tilt From Henrietta By 10 to 0 Score

The Elks team, accompanied by about 75 of their admirers and rooters drove to Henrietta for a ball game yesterday. Everybody enjoyed the ride and a few who took along a lunch for a young "picnic" had an exceptionally good time. But as far as the contest is concerned, the less said the better. In fact, there was no contest. It takes two teams to make a contest, and there was only one contest on the field. There were nine representatives of Henrietta on the field, some in uniform and some not, but they offered no opposition. The game was originally scheduled to go nine rounds, but the home boys had to wait so long to get nine men together that it was cut down to seven. However, after the Elks had scored 10 times in five sessions, while their opponents went scoreless, it was decided to call hostilities off.

The Elks were in their usual form for a couple of innings until they saw that if they played up to snuff, Henrietta would never get another chance to bat, and then they allowed themselves to be put out on the paths. Bert Lowry had things his own way on the mound and Jehle and Sandifer turned in a couple of sensational catches in the outfield.

LARGE ATTENDANCE URGED AT MEETING AND LUNCH TUESDAY

C A Kleinman, who is representing the Southern Tariff association locally, has received the following telegram from the manager of the Southern Tariff association at Fort Worth:

"The very life of the petroleum industry and future welfare of the independent oil producer is dependent upon the success of the campaign that is now under way to have foreign oil placed on the dutiable list in the permanent tariff bill now before congress. We must have the co-operation, advice and counsel of the independent operators in the Wichita Falls territory."

The big mass meeting and luncheon to be held Tuesday, June 28, at 12 o'clock Kemp hotel, has been called by the following operators who form the local committee: C. W. Reid, W. D. Cline, W. B. Hamilton, W. E. Norton, R. O. Harvey, Clint Wood, T. P. Adams, P. P. Langford, J. J. Staley, W. M. McGregor, W. R. Ferguson, N. B. Chenault, W. W. Silk, W. M. Priddy, M. D. Rowe, J. D. Parnell and C. A. Kleinman.

Will H. Gray, a large independent operator of Oklahoma, and the man who organized the Oklahoma Oil Men's association, will be the principal speaker at this meeting. An effort is also being made to have John H. Kirby, president of the Southern Tariff association and one of the largest independent operators in the country, attend the meeting.

Mr. Gray, who will speak at this meeting, is an aggressive fighter and has been very successful in his fight for the rights of independent operators in Oklahoma. He recently told an assemblage of independent oil men in Fort Worth that if the congress of the United States fails to save the oil industry of this country from destruction by refusing to levy a reasonable duty on foreign oil, the fight will be carried to the governments of Mexico and Colombia.

The refusal of the ways and means committee to include petroleum in the dutiable list of the permanent tariff law was characterized as rank discrimination against the producers of this country in favor of Mexico and other countries where the cost of production is so far below that of this country that American operators must quit the business or go broke.

Unless the finance committee of the senate treats the subject from the American viewpoint and levies an adequate duty on this product, every effort will be made to point out to the governments of other interested countries the wonderful possibilities of levying a gross production tax and export tax upon oil, and the desired results obtained, he says.

It is of vital importance that every independent producer and refiner attend the meeting next Tuesday as the business to be transacted is of the utmost importance to the oil industry in general.

ORCHESTRA SEASON PLAN AGREED UPON AT MEETING MONDAY

At a meeting in the chamber of commerce rooms Monday morning a plan was agreed upon for supporting the Wichita Falls Symphony orchestra during the coming season.

Season tickets will be sold, good for one concert monthly for seven months, it being hoped to raise in this manner the $3,000 to $4,000 required to firmly establish the orchestra as a Wichita Falls institution. Seats not included in the season tickets will be used for single admissions at a very low price, in order that the cultural value of music may be extended to as large a group as possible.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. C. F. Spencer, president of the Musicians' club; Mrs. J. W. King, chairman of the extension department of the club, Mrs. W. M. Priddy, Mrs. C. Y. Tully, R. O. Harvey, R. E. Shepperd, A. O. Murdock and H. M. Harrison.

It is the hope of those active in the matter that the orchestra can be made a real community undertaking, and that the undoubted benefits of the organization in a civic way may be continued.

TRIAL OF BASEBALL CASES BEGINS BEFORE JUDGE FRIEND IN CHICAGO; SEVERAL OF DEFENDANTS ABSENT

CHICAGO, June 27.—Ten of the 18 defendants in the 1919 baseball scandal went to trial here today. The suspended White Sox, Felsch, Cicotte, Williams, Jackson, Gandil, Weaver and Risberg, were on hand when the case was called. Fred McMillin's attorney stated that he would appear whenever the court ordered him to.

With the seven ball players there appeared three other defendants, Ben Levi, Louis Levi and David Zelser. Carl Zork and Ben Franklin of St. Louis, both of whom are under bond, were not in court.

The specific charges were conspiracy to do an illegal act and conspiracy to defraud. Under Illinois laws conviction could result in either a jail or penitentiary sentence.

The 18 men indicted are: "Chick" Gandil, White Sox first baseman in 1919; Eddie Cicotte and Claude Williams, White Sox pitchers; Swede Risberg, White Sox shortstop; Buck Weaver, White Sox third baseman; Happy Felsch and Joe Jackson, White Sox outfielders; Fred McMullin, White Sox utility player; William Burns, former major league pitcher; Hal Chase, former major league first baseman; Abe Attell; David Zelser, Louis and Ben Levi, Carl Zork, Ben Franklin, Rachel Brown and Joseph J. Sullivan, alleged gamblers, who are charged with organizing the reported conspiracy.

Two Defendants Ill

Zork and Franklin were not expected at the trial although under bond, both having sent affidavits that they were too ill to come here from their homes in St. Louis. Brown, Sullivan and Burns were never apprehended, while Attell won his fight against extradition from New York and Chase's fight against extradition was not contested by the authorities there.

The taking of testimony is not expected to start for at least a week.

Judge Friend ruled that Zork must come to trial and ordered an investigation of the condition of Ben Franklin by the state. He ordered the state to report on the condition of Franklin on Wednesday morning and ordered Zork into court at the same time. At that time Judge Friend will decide the questions concerning both Zork and Franklin and announced that in the meantime nothing would be done.

The state filed an affidavit from Paul A. Rickert of St. Louis stating that he had seen Zork walking on a street downtown last Thursday night. Judge Charles Barrett, special attorney representing the American league at the trial, testified that Zork had called on him in Chicago within the last six weeks and at that time was perfectly normal.

The investigation into alleged gambling, bribery and game throwing in major league baseball was opened officially in September, 1920, when Judge Charles A. McDonald, chief justice of the criminal courts, charged the Cook county grand jury with looking into reports which had come to his attention concerning fixed games.

The grand jury investigation which followed proved the most sensational in the sport's history. It finally resulted in the indictment of eight members of the league champions Chicago White Sox, two former major league players, two alleged gamblers and a former world champion pugilist on charges that they had conspired for the White Sox to throw the 1919 world series to the Cincinnati Reds, and that some White Sox players accepted bribes ranging as high as $10,000 to deliberately lose games in that series.

When the case was called to trial on March 17, 1921, however, it appeared that the sensational expose would develop into the greatest legal fiasco on record. The state, charging that its witnesses had been corrupted, declared it was not ready to prosecute, and when Judge William E. Dever refused a postponement, State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe declared that there was "no game" and dropped the cases against seven of the players. Judge Dever took the others off the court call.

The action of the state, however, proved to be a boomerang, for, instead of marking the end of the scandal, it proved really to be the beginning. A few days later a new grand jury investigation was started. Unlike the first one, which was attended by blaring of trumpets which made all of the testimony public, the second inquiry was secret. President Ban Johnson of the American league was the chief witness aside from state officials, who read the testimony submitted at the first hearing.

Reindicted in March.

On March 27 the thirteen men originally indicted were reindicted and with them five others were named. The thirteen named in the first indictments were the eight White Sox players—Eddie Cicotte, pitcher; Claude Williams, pitcher; Joe Jackson, left field, Happy Felsch, center field; Chick Gandil, first baseman; Swede Risberg, shortstop; Buck Weaver, third baseman; Fred McMullin, utility player; Hal Chase and Bill Burns, former major league players; Rachel Brown and Joseph J. Sullivan, alleged gamblers, and Abe Attell, said to have been the Abe Attell who formerly was world champion featherweight fighter.

In addition to these men, the second indictments named Ben Franklin and Carl Zork of St. Louis, two brothers named Levi, said to have lived in Des Moines at one time, and David Zelser, said to be from San Francisco. State's officials declared that witnesses testified Zork and Franklin were leaders of the alleged conspiracy.

While Judge McDonald's charge to the jury was the official opening of the first investigation by the state, there had been many rumors since the close of the 1919 world series that it had not been played on the square and testimony given the grand juries revealed that various baseball officials had conducted private investigations for months, but without definite results.

These rumors came to a head when a Chicago paper, in a copyrighted article, exposed an alleged attempt to "fix" a National league game in August, 1920.

Investigation Ordered.

The first investigation then was ordered and the investigators started on the 1919 world series. The days that followed produced one sensation after another until finally Edward V. Cicotte, White Sox pitcher, once rated the best in the American league, with tears in his eyes, confessed that he had received $10,000 to throw games and named seven of his teammates as associates in the alleged deal.

Following Cicotte's confession, the jury voted indictments against the eight White Sox players.

The indictments were voted the day Cicotte confessed—September 28, 1920. As soon as they were announced, Joe Jackson went to the jury and confessed to receiving $5,000, saying it was given to him by Claude Williams. The next day Williams confessed to receiving $10,000, and to giving $5,000 of it to Jackson. The money was given him by Gandil, Williams said.

Williams named Gandil and two gamblers who were introduced to him as "Brown" and "Sullivan" as the go-betweens who arranged the deal with the White Sox players.

Indictments immediately were voted against Brown and Sullivan, and later Chase.

Cicotte told the grand jury his $10,000 was given him before the series started. It was placed under his pillow, he said. Concerning the actual throwing of the games, the pitcher confessed to only one deliberate misplay. He said he purposely hit Rath, the first man up in the first game, but then repented and after that played his best throughout the series. Cicotte talked to several officials before going to the grand jury chambers. These officials quoted him as confessing to other misplays, but the hitting of Rath was the only one officially reported to the grand jury by the pitcher.

Three Before Grand Jury.

Williams and Jackson said they did not actually throw any games. The other players claim that they did not receive money and did not throw any games. Jackson, Williams and Cicotte were the only indicted players to go before the grand jury.

Williams said the eight White Sox players met with Brown and Sullivan in Cicotte's room in a small southside hotel and there discussed throwing games. The players made individual deals concerning the amounts they were to receive, he said, after first being offered and refusing $5,000 each.

President Charles A. Comiskey and Manager "Kid" Gleason of the White Sox told the jury they had conducted a secret investigation for several months. Presidents B. B. Johnson and John Heydler of the two major leagues confirmed this testimony and told of private investigations they had made.

Testimony was given that Hal Chase had sent telegrams to friends saying the series had been "fixed." Cicotte was mentioned as one of the bribed players.

Finally, Billy Maharg, former prize fighter, in an interview with a Philadelphia paper named Cicotte, Attell, Jackson and others as taking part in the alleged deal. This, seemingly, was the final straw, for a day later Cicotte confessed to Mr. Comiskey.

Seven Players Suspended.

Comiskey immediately suspended the seven players then with the club, telling them he "would drive them out of baseball forever" if the charges were found true. Cicotte was taken to the grand jury and the indictments followed.

Following the second indictments all of the White Sox players and several others voluntarily gave bonds. Gandil was arrested in Los Angeles, Cal., April 26, 1921, but had already bought a railroad ticket to Chicago to surrender and was allowed to go there unaccompanied. Chase had been arrested in San Jose, Cal., a day earlier, but no action was taken against him and eventually he was released and his bond returned.

Attell was arrested in May in New York City, after numerous hearings in which he sought to prevent his extradition to Chicago. Attell was discharged on a writ of habeas corpus. Bill Burns was reported in conference with major league officials in Chicago in June, but they denied they were negotiating with him in any way. He did not surrender, so far as was known publicly, with the others.

The trial was to be before Judge Hugo Friend, one of the younger judges and a noted western conference athlete ten years ago.

Doubles Title Goes To Gallenkamp and Lewis in Hard Match

By defeating J. W. and Henry Akin yesterday afternoon in three matches out of five, C. O. Gallenkamp and H. H. Lewis won the doubles tennis championship of the city. The scores were 5-7, 7-5, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

The match brought out the best tennis ever seen in Wichita Falls and a large and appreciative audience witnessed the battle. Some flashy tennis was displayed from the first set and the Akin brothers got the jump on their opponents by their lobbing tactics. The winners, however, soon got onto their game and turned the tables.

Several matches in the first round of singles have been played and the committee is emphatic in its statement that all matches in the first two rounds must be played by Wednesday afternoon.

POLO CLUB LOSES CLOSE MATCH TO FORT SILL

The Wichita Falls Polo club lost the first game of the series with the Fort Sill club yesterday by a score of 4 to 3. The winning goal was made in the last minute of play when the army boys crashed through the Wichita defense with a rush that swept them off their feet.

COTTON MARKET.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, June 27.—The cotton market opened firm today at an advance of 14 to 22 points owing to higher Liverpool cables, the better English labor news and reports of a firmer tone in foreign exchange. July notices were estimated at about 21,000 bales, or slightly below expectations, and there was a good demand for July from some of the interests who issued them. This helped the tone of the early market and after selling about 90 points under October at the start, July was relatively firm on covering. That delivery sold up to 11.85c, or 31 points net higher, while October advanced to 12.23c, or 28 points above Saturday's closing. A great deal of the early business represented switches from July to later deliveries.

Unfavorable private crop advices from the southwest also promoted the early buying movement, but a little more realizing was encountered on the advance, and prices eased back several points later. At the same time, the volume of business subsided, the market being comparatively quiet but steady early in the noon hour with active months ruling some 4 to 16 points net higher.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, June 27.—Reports that first July tenders in New York amounted to only 20,000 bales, and their apparent favorable reception caused a rise of 17 to 21 points in the price of cotton in the market in the first hour of business today. July rose to 10.93c and October to 11.72c.

For a while the market developed something of a tendency to sag, but the continued large export movement checked the decline. At 11 o'clock prices were 10 to 12 points over Saturday's close. Exports for the first half of the session amounted to 19,428 bales against the total clearances this day last year of only 150 bales.

The market sold off to 12.03c for October, or within eight points of Saturday's close during the early afternoon. Offerings were not heavy, however, and prices showed rallies of 9 to 10 points during the middle of the afternoon when there was probably some covering on reports that President Harding had ordered an investigation of complaints of insufficient credit facilities in the south for handling the crop in an orderly manner.

Cotton closed steady at net advances of 5 to 20 points.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

CHICAGO, June 27.—Bearish sentiment predominated in the wheat market today owing more or less to expectations of a free movement of the new crop. It was generally believed also that the visible supply total would show a liberal increase as compared with a week ago. Opening quotations, which ranged from ½c decline to ½c advance, with July $1.30 to $1.30¼, and September $1.25¾ to $1.26, were followed by a material setback all around.

Lack of any aggressive buying brought about further declines in the late trading. Prices closed heavy, 1½c to 2½c net lower, with July 1.28 to $1.28¼ and September $1.23¼ to $1.23¾.

Big receipts weakened corn. After opening ½c off to ¼c up, including ¼c to ¼c lower, to ¼c advance, September 40½c to 40¾c, and then receded for all deliveries.

No important rally took place. The close was weak, 1½c to 1¾c net lower, with September 61½c to 61¾c.

Lower hogs and grain weakened provisions.

LIVESTOCK.

Fort Worth Livestock.

FORT WORTH, June 27.—Although cattle receipts today were voluminous, there was not much to the run when the calves, yearlings and stockers were accounted for. Fat steers and cows were relatively scarce, but receipts of yearlings and stockers were excessive and the calf crop was sufficiently large. Steers were 10c to 15c down and fairly active, cows were steady to 15c lower, yearlings and stockers sloughed off 25c to 35c, and calves ruled generally 25c to 50c lower. Receipts were 3,500 head of cattle and 2,500 of calves.

Shippers bought most of the run of 1,200 hogs at steady to strong prices and packers took a few cars at prices that were weak to 10c lower. Rough heavies were 25c to 50c down. The top to shippers was $8.90 and to packers $8.80, with most of the run going at $8.60 to $8.80. Pigs sold steady to $7 to $7.50.

Sheep and lambs sold fully steady, receipts amounting to 1,500 head. Wethers brought $4.50 and some goats sold at $3.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

NEW YORK, June 27.—The stock market opened with many additions to last Saturday's vigorous rally. Metals, oils and tobaccos led the further advance with many miscellaneous shares, American Smelting, National Lead, General Asphalt, California Petroleum, Royal Dutch and Sumatra Tobacco scored early gains of 1 to 3 points. Bethlehem, Crucible and Midvale Steels, also Harvester and related shares, were strong with May Department Stores, Corn Products, Endicott Johnson and Famous Players. Reverse tendencies were shown by Mexican Petroleum, Baldwin Locomotive, Chandler Motors, American Sugar and United States Rubber, in which moderate losses were sustained.

Shorts resumed their aggressive tactics in the afternoon when the demand for stocks fell off abruptly. Extreme declines of 2 to 5 points were shown by Mexican and Pan-American petroleums, Crucible, Pierce-Arrow, United States Rubber, Industrial Alcohol, Sears-Roebuck and more than a score of specialties.

The closing was heavy. Sales about 475,000 shares.

250 RESPONSES IN CULPEPPER REVIVAL UP TO SUNDAY NIGHT

THREE SERVICES SUNDAY ARE ATTENDED BY VERY LARGE CROWDS

"GOLDEN CHOICE" SUBJECT OF SUNDAY NIGHT SERMON

Evangelist Says This is Time to Choose Between True and False Gods

More than 50 people heard Evangelist Fake Culpepper in the large services last night and Sunday. Monday he preached to the Sunday school at the First Methodist church South. This service took a grain of the wheat from their minds in the field and was one of the best services of the day. Rev. C. H. Litzler expressed himself as delighted with the splendid organization work and said it was under the supervision of W. E. Hamilton and his splendid corps of workers and teachers. Mr. Culpepper is blessing the little folks wherever he goes in a style that was early unknown. He will be in Wichita for some time.

Morning Sermon.

The thoughtful and prayerful attention was given by the large audience that heard Evangelist Culpepper at 11 o'clock at the First Methodist church. The sermon was the best part of teaching of the entire week. He took his discussion on Matthew 7:24. And sitting down they worshed Him there. The evangelist spoke of Jesus as the greatest personality in the world. His word has stood unshaken through the centuries. It has outlived the philosophy of Plato and of Marcus Aurelius. The teachings of the Nazarene have triumphed over the efforts of centuries, over the precepts of Buddha and the tenets of Mohammed. Jesus never made a mistake. His was the one perfect life that this world has seen.

In language eloquent and convincing Mr. Culpepper pronounced a most sublime eulogy upon the life of the Savior. His illustration was vivid and fascinating. He held up the matchless life of Jesus to his hearers and pleaded with them to accept this life that was laid down for them.

Following the sermon scores of people pressed forward and pledged themselves to live for Christ.

Sunday Night at Tabernacle.

Not a building in Wichita Falls could have held the crowd that thronged the tabernacle Sunday night. Several hundred people sat in their cars and heard the evangelist on "The Golden Choice."

Rev. H. D. Knickerbocker announced that the services would continue through the week, services being held daily at the Strand theater and at night at the tabernacle.

Mr. Hamilton and his splendid choir gave a thirty minutes song service to the delight of all present.

Monday night will be delegation night for the Sunday schools and it is expected that a large delegation will attend.

Evangelist Culpepper based his sermon on Joshua 24:15, the farewell address of Joshua to the assembled tribes in which he related God's benefits and renewed the covenant between God and them and asked them to make a choice between the true God and the false gods. The speaker applied the thought to the conditions of today and said man will worship something, that with some it was fame, with others it is money.

"It is a matter of individual choice," said Mr. Culpepper. "Your parents may select the school for you or the father may select the business for his son, but with it a great matter before us it must be an individual choice. Many men are making the choice now, some are choosing wisely, while others are choosing foolishly.

Mr. Culpepper said that in making this choice one must put away false gods. Joshua said "As for me and my house we will serve the Lord." In making this choice one must do so regardless of others he said. "If your friends will not go with you then you will have to say farewell to them and sing with the poet, 'I'm going where the saints have taken all to leave and follow thee.'"

Joshua became responsible for those over whom he had control. He was the rightful representative and responsible head of his household.

Another thing of great importance when you make this choice it should be made public. It is a public confession and then immediately connect yourself with some church. A decision not made is a decision that is against Christ. He does not say that an republican votes the republican ticket and a Christian should vote the Christ ticket.

At the close of the forty minutes his curse Mr. Culpepper gave an invitation for all who would make this all important choice to come forward and take him by the hand and enroll their name for church. Twenty responded to the proposition making the total number of conversions to date of more than 250.

Monday night will be Kid Night at the tabernacle at which time Evangelist Culpepper will preach on "The Purposeful Youth." This is a strong appeal not only to the young people but to all the older ones as well. Everybody will be welcome to this service.

"THE ALABASTER BOX" IS SUNDAY MORNING SUBJECT AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

By FRANK S. REID

Dr. Grifton's sermon at the First Presbyterian church on Sunday morning was taken from the 14th chapter of John, the third verse. And the house was filled with the odor of the ointment, changing for his subject, specifically to the text. "The Alabaster Box," Dr. Grifton said:

Jesus was on His last journey to Jerusalem. He was walking under the shadow of the cross, conscious that the end of His life was approaching. On that last journey to Jerusalem He stopped off a little while at Bethany and was entertained in the home of Martha, Lazarus and Mary, the home that meant so much to Him in the business of His life, the home where He was delighted to spend a part of the time, the home in which He cared and raised Lazarus from the dead. A supper was given for the Master and certain guests had been invited.

Lazarus, the man in this house sat down at the table as a guest rather than as a host. Martha was serving. Martha was a wonderful character and it was her delight to serve the Master in a material way. Mary was absent at first but came into the room while they were eating and anointed the Master's head and feet and after she had poured the ointment upon His feet she took down her hair and wiped the feet of the Master and the house was filled with the odor of the ointment. Every nook and corner, every room and every hallway was penetrated by the odor of the ointment and so this has gone out through all centuries, the grace of the ointment that Mary of Bethany poured upon her Lord and upon her Christ.

I take it that when Jesus Christ spoke of this wonderful act of the woman Jesus act of this woman that it would be an inspiration to other minds, other hearts and to other lives. It was under the influence of this act that Mary was willing to act and do likewise that the odor of sacrifice, that we pour upon humanity, upon the head and feet of many will go out from our lives.

All of us need to open the alabaster box of ointment. We need to break it in the world at large. There is a wide sense spread in the hearts of men of the spirit of brotherhood, the spirit of fraternism, the spirit of service. It is the spirit of Jesus Christ who went about doing good. I am glad that the spirit today is not the spirit of selfishness. We have got a way from the idea that I am first, last and all the time.

We have learned to break the alabaster box of ointment of service upon humanity. There is coming back to us every day stories of sacrifice, stories of service and stories of some one blessing humanity. So let us all break the alabaster box upon the world at large, upon the church and upon the home.
